

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

The Artful Villages Second Saturday Hand Made Art Market

River Oaks, Texas, October 1, 2014 – On Saturday, October 11 at 11am, the Artful Village and Wildcatter Exchange present the City Light Singers. Consisting of Michael H. Price, Greg Jackson, A. Kathleen Jackson and Harris Kirby, the City Light Singers are a totally acoustic, swinging folk music group with a sense of harmony and humor. Price often quips the City Light Singers are the group that put the harm back into harmony.

Also speaking under the Artful Village and Wildcatter Exchange banner will be local filmmaker and writer Mark A. Nobles. Mark is a documentary filmmaker and writer residing in Fort Worth. He is co-owner of Flyin' Shoes Films and produced Teen A Go Go: A Little Film About Rock and Roll History and was Associate Producer of Giles McCrary's You Must Be Weird or You Wouldn't Be Here, a film about Fort Worth's infamous Cellar nightclub. Current projects include Cold War Peacemaker: The History of Convair's B-36 Bomber and The Acre, a historical fiction novel set in Fort Worth at the dawn of the Industrial Age.

Mark is also Executive Director of The Wildcatter Exchange: Two Days of Rhythm & Rhymes Truth & Lies, Fort Worth's newest cultural festival located in the historic South Main Village.

The Artful Village hosts an Art Market the second weekend of every month. The Art Market has local visual artists, live music, food and drinks. It is the perfect setting to buy local, quench your thirst, tap your feet and mingle with artists and art lovers of all kinds. Don't miss this exciting, free event.

Event Info: 10am, Saturday, October 11 at Artful Village, 1005 Yale, River Oaks. Admission is FREE.
